[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO MAY 13

THE CIVIL WAR IN FRANCE

Measures of the Insurgents.

PARIS, May 12.—The Committee of Public Safety has issued a proclamation to the people which says the Republic and Commune have escaped mortal peril. Rossel's surrender of Issy was the first step in the drama, the opening of the gates of Paris was to follow. A majority of the guilty have been arrested, a Court Martial is now sitting and their punishment will be exemplary. Numerous papers are suppressed.

The Commune has ordered religious instructions to cease, and that all crucifixes and madonnas be removed from schools.

The Siecle says that a vast Bonapartist organization exists throughout France.

Commune emissaries are arranging the convention of four municipal Congresses at Bordeaux, Lyons, Nantes and Lille.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A Paris dispatch of the 12th says a meeting of Free Masons was held this morning and resolutions passed that the property of persons now absent from Paris and not returning within eight days, will be confiscated for the benefit of widows and orphans.

LONDON, May 12.—A Times Paris special says bank clerks are armed, victualled and resolved to stand the siege. More newspapers have been suspended.

To day Turcos de Commune mounted guard at the Hotel de Ville. All circulation is stopped.

Dombrowski declares that Rossel is not a traitor.

The German commander has demanded the disarmament of the northern [illegible].

A Paris special says a levy en masse is expected. Gen Coolis becomes Generalissimo.

The Commune demands 10,000,000 francs from the banks.

Movements of Versailles Troops.

VERSAILLES, May 12.—The Government troops carried the convent of Issy to day at the point of the bayonet. Many insurgents were killed, and three guns were captured.

Fifty thousand Versaillists will cross the Seine to night, going to strengthen Bois de Boulogne and Bellancourt.

VERSAILLES, May 13.—Issy Seminary has been captured. 100 Federals killed and several hundred prisoners taken. The approaches are being pushed.

A Bourbon Bids for the Throne.

VERSAILLES, May 12.—A letter from Count Chambord is published, bidding for the throne.

The Recent Conference at Frankfort.

BERLIN, May 12.—In the German Parliament to day Bismarck gave the particulars of the recent visit to Frankfort to confer with Favre and Pouyer Quertier. He said that if the object sought had not been accomplished, Germans would have taken possession of Paris and demanded the withdrawal of the Versailles forces behind the Loire. The treaty which was concluded hastens the payment of the war indemnity to Germany, a half milliard of it is to be paid by France thirty days after the entry of the Versailles army into Paris and a milliard more before the end of December of the present year, but only when the Germans evacuate Paris forts. As to the abrogation of the commercial treaty, Bismarck stated that the withdrawal of force from maintenance of investment was mainly for the purpose and in the hope of the receipt of increased custom duties with which to liquidate her indebtedness. Ratifications of the treaty are to be exchanged on the 20th inst.

United States and Great Britain.

LONDON, May 12.—The Times says the basis of the essential provisions of the Washington Treaty will certainly be adopted by the Senate, and therefore the treaty will virtually be concluded. It is the result of mutual concession. The Times finds nothing inconsistent with national honor. England is ready to make a sacrifice to restore amity between the different branches of the Anglo Saxon family.

Discussion in Parliament.

LONDON, May 12.—In the House of Lords to day, Lord Redesdale asked whether the United States could legally raise the question of remuneration for vessels and property destroyed by the Alabama. He argued that the Southern States of the American Union were alone responsible for the depredations of the Alabama and kindred ships, and that the Government of Great Britain could not have legally detained the Alabama, for she was not armed when she left British waters.

Earl Lauderdale concurred.

Granville was glad the question had been raised, as it gave him the opportunity for a consideration of its provisions, but in the meantime he expressed regret at the occurrence of desultory discussion. He admitted that it was the duty of the Government to give every attention to the view of the subject presented by Redesdale, as well as to all other matters which would aid it in resistance to the payment of these claims. He concluded by stating that the treaty itself would be in the hands of the Government by the end of next week, and that it would be promptly laid before Parliament for consideration.

EASTERN STATES

Shocking Accident on the Erie Railroad.

BUFFALO, May 12.—A little past 6 o'clock this morning a freight train with an emigrant car and caboose attached, on the New York and Erie Railroad, bound west, was run into by an extra freight train this side of Utica. Five children were killed, and 14 or 15 persons wounded.

Vanderbilt About to Buy out Jay Gould and Jim Fisk.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Sun to day says there is a rumor that Commodore Vanderbilt has concluded a bargain to buy out the interest of Jay Gould and Fisk, Jr., and their friends, in Erie Company. It is said he is to take all stock at market price and pay them a bonus of $3,000,000. The arrangement is not yet consummated, but it is believed those are the terms agreed on.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Among the passengers by the Ajax from Honolulu were Sir Charles Clifford of New Zealand, en route to England on business connected with the establishment of a line of English steamers between the Colonies and this port; Captain Burton, British army; Hon D McBride, Judge of the Fourth District; Hon A H Wideman, Associate Judge of the Supreme Court of the Hawaiian Islands. The latter goes to Europe.

James O'Neil, while driving a coal cart across Long Bridge yesterday, fell under the wheels and was instantly killed.

The Young Men's Republican Club has determined not to issue a special address to the Germans.

The bid of J Seligman for [illegible] 000 San Francisco Bank six per cent bonds at par, has been accepted by the Commissioner.

Hongkong advices report much activity in warlike preparations being made by Chinese. The Taku forts are being strengthened and other preparations made evidently looking to European hostilities.

Tickets in the Marysville Gift Concert have been selling very rapidly here to day in anticipation that the drawing will take place positively on Monday next.

The soldier suiciding here last night was Frederick Ravenstein, a native of Philadelphia, aged 26 years, recently discharged from Company C, 1st regiment U S Cavalry for disability. There is nothing known of the cause of the suicide.

The foreman and the entire jury in the Fair case have united in a card which they publish fully endorsing the action of Judge Dwinelle in keeping them together during the entire trial. They say that his action enabled them to deliberate more dispassionately and kept them not only from outside influence and approaches by designing parties, but from any suspicion of such, and recommend that the same course be followed in all cases of importance wherein public feeling is largely enlisted.

The award of the contract for meat for all military posts in and around San Francisco was made to day to A Newman at $8 20 for beef, $6 20 for mutton.

The contract for grading the avenue from Baker and Stanyan streets, at the entrance of the Golden Gate, for a little over $15,000 was accepted.

Passed west at Ogden, O M Bernard, for Portland, Oregon.

The Montana, from Mexico, brings 15 passengers and $111,000 in treasure.

The Great Republic brings 31 passengers for San Francisco, 26 for New York and 17 for Europe.

The barkentine C L Taylor has arrived from San Jose de Guatemala with 60,690 bags of coffee for C A Low & Co.

No change in Eastern quotations or greenbacks.

INTERIOR CALIFORNIA DISPATCHES

A Coast Railway

SANTA CLARA, May 13.—The Southern coast railroad surveying party arrived here this evening. The party followed the line of the coast from San Francisco to this place. They report favorably as to the practicability of a narrow gauge railroad.

ARIZONA

Indian Hostilities

SAN DIEGO, May 13.—From the Tucson Citizen we get the following:

TUCSON, May [illegible].—Early last Friday Lieut H B Cushing, of the 3d Cavalry, with twenty men encountered the noted Apache Chief Cucheos, with 150 or more warriors in the Whetstone mountains, 65 miles southeast from Tucson. He was repulsed, and himself and one soldier killed and a citizen named Simpson also killed, and one soldier wounded. The great strength of the Indians compelled a retreat to Camp Crittenden without the bodies of their comrades.

Captain Stanwood with 40 men, was at Camp Crittenden for rations at the time, and is now after the Indians, as is also Captain Moore with 40 men. Lieutenant Cushing was one of the few truly energetic, untiring and successful officers in the Arizona service, and his loss is sincerely deplored.

LOS ANGELES, May 13.—The Arizona Miner of the 6th contains the following:

A party of men numbering seven or eight came in from Colorado Territory and were set to work in the mines of the Bradshaw company and others on the ranches. They brought with them a wagon and team and came via New Mexico, and found plenty of wood and grass.

Word was brought to Fort Whipple on Thursday last that the Indians had attacked a Mexican train at Hawley's Springs, killing one man, wounding another, and capturing eighty seven head of cattle.

Another report is that on Monday night a large party of Indians attacked and drove off seven or eight soldiers near the saw mill this side of Camp Verde.

The Break-Down of Fraud in Connecticut

[From the N. Y. Times.]

The Democracy, regardless of the law and fact, are endeavoring to make out that James E English is legally chosen Governor of Connecticut. It appears that they will, if the General Assembly gives the certificate to Gov Jewell, denounce the action as fraudulent. "Hitherto," says a Democratic paper, "it has been the custom to accept the count of the official canvasser, without going behind their returns. Circumstances may arise which render it unsafe to adhere to this custom, and the recent election in Connecticut presented an example of such circumstances. In the town of Enfield there is a false count of twenty five votes, and in the Fourth Ward of New Haven the vote of English is one hundred in excess of the poll. The Moderator of the town of Enfield filed with the return of the vote of the town a protest in writing against the correctness of the count. The Moderator of the Fourth ward of New Haven has certified to errors in the return. Surely, then it is the imperative duty of the General Assembly to ascertain what errors were really made by the canvassers in counting the votes. Or are we to have it recognized by law and custom that the results of ballot-box stuffing are everywhere to be binding in elections?"

The Constitution of Connecticut provides that the Assembly shall, after an examination of the returns, declare which candidate they find to be legally chosen, and give him notice accordingly. In the present instance, how is the correctness of the returns from the town of Enfield and the Fourth ward of New Haven to be determined except by recount? The returns from these two districts are accompanied by evidence of fraud. This evidence the Assembly is, by the express terms of the Constitution, bound to consider. An examination can only be refused in direct violation of the law. If the returns are always to be accepted as correct without examination, why was it made the duty of the Assembly to examine them? The law of Connecticut empowers the Assembly, not the canvassers, to correct the returns.

The election in Connecticut is of too recent occurrence for the circumstances attending it to have passed out of the public mind. Tammany resolved to buy Connecticut. The sale was negotiated at Albany between Boss Tweed and James E English. The telegrams exchanged between the "high contracting parties," on the eve of the election, would be sufficient evidence of the sale, even if there were no other. On the day of election the bullies of Tammany were in attendance at the polls and New Haven was filled with the roughest repeaters of the "Ring." Though assisted by the frauds and corruption of Tammany, Gov English could not deliver the article purchased. Having failed at the polls, an impudent attempt is now being made by the Democratic Press to browbeat the Assembly into accepting the returns of the canvassers as unquestionable. All that Republicans ask is that there shall be a scrutiny of them as the Constitution provides, in order that the certificates of the Moderators of the Fourth Ward of New Haven and Enfield may be found, and the one hundred and twenty five fraudulent votes cast for James E. English discovered. In the State of New York free government is at an end. Four men have been given more than kingly power over the revenue and wealth of the city. This power has been obtained by wholesale corruption and an unparalleled system of fraud. The corruption which was at one time confined to the City of New York is spreading to the other States, the rural districts are becoming familiar with it, and now an attempt is made to seize Connecticut by main force. But the Tammany gang will find that the people of other States have some spirit still left in them. They are Americans, not slaves. The returns are to be examined on Wednesday next by the Assembly, and the person legally chosen, who in this instance is Marshall Jewell, will be duly declared Governor of Connecticut.

History repeats itself. Sixty years ago, during the Peninsular wars, the Duke of Wellington, in a letter addressed to an English naval officer, declared that no reliance could be placed upon the word of honor of any French officer, stating that he knew many who received permission to leave England on giving their parole not to serve until exchanged, who at that date were in active service in the French army in Spain, and though not a single British officer had been sent by France in return. Prussia made bitter complaints of a similar want of faith during the late campaign. There are many honorable people in France, and yet their overshadowing need may be summed up in one word—Conscience.

Dr Dollinger refuses to accept the dogma of Papal Infallibility in any character, whether as citizen, historian, theologian or christian. He asserts that the new articles of faith are based upon texts to which the Fathers gave a different meaning, that the history of the church refutes the assertion that it is not a new doctrine, and that the mass of the bishops in the Council were led astray by their class books.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

THE CIVIL WAR IN FRANCE.

Dispatches from Paris

PARIS, May 13.—It is said that Rossel is at Belleville, where he is arranging for the safety of the city.

In case the Versaillists take the ramparts the Republican League will join the Communists.

Dispatch from Versailles

VERSAILLES, May 13.—Favre communicated to the Assembly to day the treaty of peace with Germany negotiated at Frankfort. The hardness of the terms occasioned much emotion among the members.

The Russian Grand Duke not Coming to America

NEW YORK, May 13.—Private letters from St Petersburg say that the intended visit of Grand Duke Alexander to this country has been not only postponed but entirely given up.

WASHINGTON CITY

The Treaty of Washington

WASHINGTON, May 13.—There is no doubt that four or five Senators have prepared amendments to the treaty of Washington. A number of Senators are preparing to deliver elaborate speeches on the subject, which will hereafter be published should the injunction of secrecy be removed.

Recent comments with regard to the treaty, both in England and Canada, have disposed Senators to look more closely into its provisions and relative bearings, and there is ground for belief that the session will be prolonged three or four weeks.

The Committee on Foreign Relations are again in session on the treaty of Washington.

The Select Committee on breach of Senatorial privileges, have commenced their labors and several subpœnas have been served on correspondents.

Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Subscriptions to the new loan amount to $64,447,000, and delivery will begin by the middle of next week. The condition of the loan is regarded as very encouraging.

The Committee on Foreign Relations will report to the Senate the treaty without amendment on Monday.

The Attorney General declares that the interest and coupon dividends accruing and salaries of U S officers for the last five months of 1870 are all subject to revenue and income tax, and corporators and persons indebted must be held to payment of tax.

Woman Suffrage Defeated in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, May 13.—A resolution providing for an amendment to the State Constitution to confer suffrage on woman has been defeated in the Massachusetts House by a vote of 118 to 67.

The Senate rejected the bill fixing hours for labor in factories by a large majority.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14.—A party of fifteen Russian sailors from the war steamer Bogarn, having been badly stricken with Barbary Coast lightning, got into a fight on Kearney street, during which they demolished the whole front of a restaurant and received innumerable wounds of a sanguinary but not dangerous character, and created quite a panic in that crowded thoroughfare. Seven or eight of them were captured by the police and locked up after resisting like bull dogs to the last, and the rest escaped.

The Fenian picnic at Redwood City to-day was attended by a large crowd.

The last of the Sunday military excursions took place to-day.

The steamer California arrived from San Diego.

The steamer Montana, from Panama, is fully due, but it is doubtful if she can enter port this evening, as the weather is very warm and foggy. The Golden Gate was hidden all day.

Preparations are being made on an extensive scale by the First Regiment, Col W H L Barnes, to go to Alameda on Wednesday. The intention is to make this the finest affair in the line that ever came off in California.

The wool market has been very sensibly affected by the scandalous frauds in packing, which have been so extensively practiced this season. There are now some seven thousand bales in this state here for sale, and the stock is steadily increasing. Some of this has been so adulterated with sand and refuse matter that dealers refuse to make an offer for it at any price, and the packers will have it left on their hands, a total loss. It is now necessary to open and overhaul every bale in order to ascertain whether frauds have been practiced or not. One bale opened here last week contained a rock weighing 56 pounds, and other bales were similarly adulterated. The packers of this lot will be indicted for swindling as soon as the grand jury are ready to act on the case.

He asserts that they are the equals of Victoria Regina, who rules England. Which may all be true, except that Victoria Regina doesn't rule England.

The West Side has this little story: "Our venerable foreman was taken aback the other evening, when on going home he was taken to his wife's bedside and shown a couple of very young ladies of the name of Swain. Scratching his bald pate in bewilderment, he finally gasped 'Wh-wh-where's the balance of 'em,' and rushed frantically out. When next seen he was trying to hire some boys to go round and buy up a lot of little cribs."

At a meeting of the Yamhill County Farmers Club last week the Executive Committee were requested to confer with the managers and Directors of the Washington County Agricultural Society with reference to holding a joint Fair for Yamhill and Washington during the coming fall, and the committee was requested to report a plan or proposal for such arrangement at the next regular meeting. A joint Fair by these counties would be something worth attending.

From the Dalles Mountaineer: At Oak Grove on the 1st inst., the wife of Peter Delor was instantly killed. The particulars of the accident, as near as we are able to learn them, are as follows: Peter Delor gave his wife a horse to hold while he drove some cattle out of the corral, and while doing so, from some cause not known, the horse made a sudden jump, throwing the wife on her head and dragging her some distance. Her husband immediately ran to her assistance, and on picking her up found that she was already dead.

The [illegible] thinks that in the event of France persisting in a policy of commercial non intercourse with Germany she would be by far the greater loser of the two nations. The latest annual returns of the amount of exports from the States of Germany to France shows a total of fifty three millions of dollars. Of this not more than three millions represent manufactured goods, while the remainder consist of such raw material as wool, hides and lumber, and such necessaries as cattle, grain and coals. On the other hand, France exports to Germany manufactured goods to the extent of about forty three millions annually. Non intercourse would therefore fall very heavily against the French workmen, who are the foremost in clamoring for it.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 15, 1871.

Re Statement of the Northwest Boundary Question.

Since the "San Juan question," so-called, has again risen into prominence through the action of the Joint High Commission, it may be of interest to many to have the whole subject restated.

Prior to the year 1846 the territory west of the Rocky Mountains and north of Mexico was held under joint occupation by the United States and Great Britain. The treaty of 1818 provided for such an occupation for ten years, and in 1828 the provision was continued in force indefinitely, to be terminated at will by either Government. Under this arrangement the Hudson's Bay Company held the actual and exclusive control; and when, in 1840-3, emigration began to set strongly this way from the East, it became necessary to take some action to protect American settlers in their rights. The determination of Great Britain to establish the boundary on the north bank of the Columbia river prevented any arrangement at that time, but in 1844 the attempt was again made. Negotiations were commenced by Mr. Upshur and continued by Mr. Calhoun, when a vast difference in the claims was manifest. The British Government demanded the north bank of the Columbia and equal privileges at its mouth, while Mr. Calhoun stood firm for the forty-ninth parallel, and his party entered the Presidential canvass with the watchword of "fifty-four forty or fight." The parallel of fifty-four degrees forty minutes was the boundary based on a convention with Russia in 1824, and in his inaugural message Mr. Polk claimed that our title to the territory south of that line was clear and indisputable. This declaration aroused the war spirit in England, and in 1846 Mr. Buchanan, then Secretary of State, reopened the negotiations with the offer of the forty-ninth parallel as a boundary. A treaty was ratified making this the boundary line from the great lakes to the Pacific; but since, if continued, this line would cut Vancouver's Island and place within our jurisdiction the most important settlement in British Columbia, it was agreed that, when the line reached the coast, it should continue to the center of the Gulf of Georgia and thence southward, through the channel which separates the continent from Vancouver's Island, to the Straits of Juan de Fuca.

This convention seemed to settle the whole matter as to the northwest boundary forever; but after the lapse of a few years the dispute arose again and assumed a new phase. The point of dispute was now regarding the "channel" mentioned in the treaty. The British claim the Rosario channel, to the east and south; the United States claim the Haro channel, to the west and north and close to Vancouver's Island. Between the two lies the island of San Juan, whose possession has been contested, almost to the verge of war, to this day. The claim of the British to locate the boundary in Rosario channel is based upon the statement that this channel is the one always used, that the island of San Juan commands the Haro channel, and that the latter leads to British Columbia and nowhere else. The United States, on the other hand, claim that the Rosario channel has been used by vessels simply from the fact that it was less open, less liable to storm disturbances, and affording easy anchorages; while the Haro channel is wider and deeper, more direct by some twenty miles, and more appropriately the boundary indicated in the treaty. It is moreover urged that, when agreeing to relinquish our claim to Vancouver's Island, we did not intend, nor did any one ask us, to part with any other territory south of the forty-ninth parallel.

The dispute as to the right of possession arose in this way: When the Territory of Washington was created the Haro Archipelago, including the Island of San Juan, the principal of the group, was constituted by an act of the Legislature of that Territory a part of Whatcom county. The Hudson's Bay Company had large flocks of sheep on San Juan Island, which were assessed by the county authorities of Whatcom the same as other property. On the refusal of the Company to pay taxes their property was advertised and sold to satisfy the demand. This led to correspondence between the Governors of Vancouver Island and of Washington Territory, which opened the dispute as to the ownership of the Island. Shortly afterwards some Americans on the Island got into trouble with the British there, and requested Gen. Harney to send over troops to protect them, which he did. On arriving there they met a British force, and a collision of arms was imminent. But by the forbearance of the British commander, who, it must be owned, exercised far more judgment and good sense than the commander of our forces, hostilities were averted. Gen. Scott was sent on in haste from Washington to arrange for a joint military occupation, under which the Island has been held since that time.

Our part of this arrangement never had the sanction of law. Hence the civil authorities of Washington Territory have frequently treated it as of no binding force, and have often arrested our military officers for resisting the civil jurisdiction of the Territory on the island. As Gen. Halleck wrote in 1867 to the War Department,—"The military officers of the United States are required to prevent the exercise of civil jurisdiction on the disputed islands, while the civil authorities of the same Government insist upon its execution, and proceed to punish the former for the very acts which are required of them by the War Department."

This has been one of the most vexed questions in our diplomacy, and there is reason to be glad that it seems now to be in process of speedy settlement.

British American Confederation and the Canadian Railway.

Just now our neighbors of British Columbia are in a state of great anxiety about the proposed Canadian Pacific railway. The people of Canada are naturally reluctant to undertake this mighty work, which will cost in principal and interest a sum estimated as high as two hundred million dollars, and which they fear will create an insupportable burden. It is necessary for the advocates of Confederation to handle this matter deftly in order not to frighten the Canadian people. Hence at a banquet at Ottawa a short time ago, Mr. Trutch, a delegate from British Columbia, made an adroit speech on the railroad question, in which he said:

> The people of British Columbia would not entertain the idea of forcing Canada to keep to the strict letter of the agreement. If Canada had to raise one hundred millions of dollars to build this road and tax the people of the Dominion, including those of British Columbia, to pay it, he would be the first to raise his voice against it.

The Victoria Colonist takes Mr. Trutch to task for these utterances, and thinks that Canada should be made to understand that in the matter of building this railroad British Columbia will not be juggled with. According to the Colonist the construction of the road is the only consideration worth mentioning to induce British Columbia to join the Dominion of Canada.

In the Canadian Parliament some days ago a member in discussing this railroad question said:

> British Columbia as well as Manitoba could comparatively be placed in communication with the Dominion at a very insignificant outlay; first by the opening of a link between Fort Garry and Pembina, where the American Pacific Railway will have an extension in a very short time from this, and secondly, by building a link on the shores of the Pacific from British Columbia to the Northern Pacific Railway, which the Americans are now building, affording to our two sister colonies the advantages of mutual communication and of partaking of all the advantages of the great railway networks of the United States and of Canada.

The Victoria paper prints this, and replies testily:

> We could readily understand annexationists and fools entertaining such a scheme; for it would indeed be difficult to hit on one better adapted to the work of Americanizing the Northwest and British Columbia. If Canada does not feel herself adequate to the task of binding together by means of an inter-oceanic railway all her enormous possessions west of the Great Lakes, she had better at once abandon the idea of empire, for no weaker bond will suffice to hold these possessions together. There must be no faltering here. The exigencies of the case admit of no question,—will endure no hesitation or delay. A bold national policy and prompt and decisive action, or complete failure and final abandonment are now the sole alternatives. Nay, more, if Canada and the parent empire together cannot, or, what is practically the same thing, will not take advantage of the present flood tide of westward empire, it will be as well to withdraw the Union Jack from this continent; and the sooner Canada and Great Britain are thoroughly convinced of this, if happily they are not already convinced, the better will it be for all parties.

We present these discussions as incidents of an important political movement among our northern neighbors, the development of which it will be quite interesting to our citizens to watch from their own standpoint.

The Way they do it in New York.

The Democratic national address has come forth full of dismal warning, and with here and there an intimation that a panacea for all the woes depicted can be found in the elevation of the Democratic party to power. Republicans have been spendthrifts; they will economize,—after the New York pattern. A radical Congress has usurped the rights of the people; they will give them back,—after the style of Tweed. The President will trample down the rights of the States; they will respect those rights,—after the manner of Jeff. Davis and other secessionists. Now, just to show what "Democratic reform" means, we give the following from the Albany (N.Y.) Journal, which illustrates the manner in which they "reform" affairs in New York, where they have unlimited power:

> To review in detail the acts of this Legislature—to do full justice to its character and its works—would require columns. But the general outlines may be briefly stated. Its great distinguishing feature has been its constant aggrandizement of the Tammany Ring. The Ring has, indeed, absolutely controlled the majority, and they have simply registered its decrees in slavish subservience. They have put monstrous powers in its hands. They have given it millions for political corruption and private plunder. They have passed job after job reeking with infamy, and scheme after scheme robbing the rights of the people. Through the extraordinary acts of this Legislature, the four masters of the Ring, Messrs. Tweed, Sweeny, Hall and Connolly, have acquired an imperial power such as has never before been witnessed in a free government. They control the taxes, the treasury, the indebtedness, the improvements, the charities, the schools—everything, in short, relating to the public administration of the city. They handle millions without check, limit or accountability. Their enormous power has given them complete dominance in the Legislature, and that dominance has been used to perpetuate and enhance their imperialism. Under the new Tax Levy and the amended Charter, they have become omnipotent, and with the public purse entirely at their disposal they now strike for a similar control in the national government. To buy their way to national power by subsidizing whole communities and States is the malign programme of this grasping Ring.
> Under its ascendancy the whole legislation of the State has been utterly demoralized. The majority have shown the same contempt for public sentiment in general matters as in those pertaining to the city of New York. They have struck down the registry law with its safeguards upon the purity of the ballot box. They have passed another election bill separating the State, Congressional and Legislative boxes with the design of facilitating fraud. They have upon a direct vote expressly upheld the Erie outrage. They have distinctly affirmed the policy of sectarian appropriations. They have trampled upon the rights of localities in the very face of earnest and overwhelming protests from the people. They have refused the principle of local option in the control of the liquor traffic. They have passed the most prodigal and reckless appropriations. "They have shown themselves friends of monopolies, created boards and bureaus, multiplied officials, increased salaries and extended the tenure of office without the consent of the people. They have increased the public expenditures in all directions, and have been lavish of moneys to be expended by party favorites, while great public enterprises are allowed to languish for lack of needed aid."

This is the "reform party" that wants to control the Government of the United States.

Southern Democratic Purposes.

Among Southern Democratic journals there is almost perfect unanimity of sentiment regarding the course to be pursued in the campaign of '72. They will not endure any suggestion about "accepting the situation," but declare openly and boldly that the fight shall be made against the settlements made by the Republican party. We quote from one of these journals the following:

> If these Radical and fraudulent addenda to the fundamental law, and all the civil rights laws, force bills and Ku Klux laws, the outgrowth of them, are to be "accepted" as sacred "settlements," the triumph of the Democratic party would be too much a hollow name to be greatly prized.
>
> There is something more than a mere name in this to the people of the South. If they are to accept negro suffrage and all the constitutional amendments and legislation out of which it grows as unalterable and unconditional they had better give up the Democratic party, fraternize with an organization in which they could much more easily control the negroes than they can by maintaining their party fealty. If the Democratic party proposes nothing, but insists upon putting itself, by a cowardly abandonment of principle, in a position that it can do neither section any good the South will have little concern for its success.
> The truth is, it is only a false and faithless abandonment of all the questions involved—a retreat before the battle begins, which can make any such trimming necessary. If the South is mistaken about this it has nothing to lose by the mistake.

The Herald is smoked out at last. After utterly ignoring for two weeks the charges against School Director Dennison, with which the city has been ringing, it now notices the matter in a brief paragraph, and mildly suggests that Mr. Dennison should either "answer the charges or refund the money." Of course the Herald never would have spoken at all, had not all the other papers united in denouncing the transaction and created an irresistible pressure of public opinion on the subject. It would have been about as glad as Mr. Dennison to have the whole affair forgotten. Now that it has been forced to come out, the public should next hear from the Director himself. That paper could not afford to keep silent longer because he is a Democrat, nor afford to despise public opinion further, nor can he.

OREGON.

There are strawberries and cream at some of the towns up the valley; but the strawberries are nothing to brag of yet.

The wagonmakers, blacksmiths and painters of Salem are organizing a protective system for the manufacture of wagons, intending to favor the home-made article.

In a new pamphlet issued by the Northern Pacific Railroad Company there is an estimate in the cost of construction of $1,200,000 to be expended in bridging the Columbia at Vancouver and the Wallamet at Portland, and also another sum for the five miles of branch road to connect Portland with the main trunk line.

The following named teachers, as we learn by the Statesman, have been selected for the Salem public schools for this year: Prof E. R. James and Miss Mary A Gallagher, East Salem, Miss Mary A. Robinson and Maggie Patton, Central School, Mr. C H Crook, South Salem, Miss Hanora Carrol, North Salem. The term commences to-morrow.

From the Statesman of Sunday Yesterday the Legislative Commission adjourned to meet again the fourth Monday in June next. In the meantime Mr. S. C. Simpson, the present clerk of the Commission, will prepare a report, which they will meet to consider and adopt, with amendments if they deem them necessary. Two days of their time remains to operate upon. B. F. Benham has resigned as a member of the Commission, and R. H. Dearborn has been appointed by Governor Grover to fill the vacancy.

The First Democratic Gun for 1872.

[From Harper's Weekly.]

The address of the Democrats in Congress to their party is a singularly feeble and pointless performance. It denounces the administration, of course. It denounces the Republicans, of course. It declares that radicalism is ruining the country, of course. But upon the one important point in which the country is interested it is silent. Does the Democratic party accept the amendments with their consequences? If it does not, it can have no hope of electing a President. If it does, let it say so. And that is precisely what it does not say. That is precisely what this address avoids. It arraigns the Republicans. It begs its Southern wing to be quiet. But the representatives of the party which connived at the rebellion, and whose last National Convention declared the amendments and reconstruction to be revolutionary, unconstitutional and void, decline to say whether they are of the same opinion still, and whether they acquiesce in the settlement of the war.

Indeed they can not say so, for they know that that is the very question which internally rends their party. Some of their Northern organs declare that, of course, they must acquiesce; that they would be tomfools not to acquiesce. But the Southern leaders retort that they do not acquiesce; while Major-General Francis P. Blair, author of the Brodhead letter, and late Democratic candidate for the Vice-Presidency, rubs his hands and shouts, "St', boy!" The Major-General is from Missouri, and he does not object to what is there sometimes called a scrimmage. Meanwhile the jesting Mr. John Quincy Adams looks on from Massachusetts and remarks, pleasantly, that the Democratic party had better begin by trying to be democratic. Indeed, what this Democratic address does not say is very much more forcible than what it does. Its silence shows conclusively that the Democratic representatives from every part of the country feel that the party does not acquiesce in the settlements of the war, and that the maintenance of those settlements will be, as the lively General Blair says it ought to be, the issue of the Presidential campaign. If these gentlemen thought that the sentiment of their party would justify it, they would have asserted without reservation that there was no intention to reopen the question of reconstruction. To say that they leave the subject to their National Convention is folly. They understand very well the political situation. They would not hesitate to speak if they were sure of support, and their silence betrays their conviction that the Convention will at most avoid a frank declaration.

The address, indeed, begs fellow citizens in all parts of the Union not to violate any right secured by the Constitution or by any of its amendments. But it very carefully refrains from saying whether the Fifteenth really is a valid amendment. And why should a Democratic body appeal to its friends not to violate rights, if it were not conscious that its friends were somewhere violating rights? Then the gentlemen say—and Mr. Fernando Wood heads the list of representatives—that no indignation can be stern enough and no scorn too severe for the assertion that the Democratic party sympathizes with the deprivation of any body's rights under the Constitution. But whether voting is a right of colored citizens under the Constitution, which is the main question, they carefully omit to state. The Democratic party, as such, has not indeed declared for the Ku Klux; but the Ku Klux is composed of Democrats, and its crimes are pooh-poohed and denied by Democrats; and whenever there is a prospect of Democratic success the Ku Klux outrages are doubled.

Indeed, it is not easy to fancy a more contemptibly feeble manifesto than that with which the Democratic campaign is opened.

WHERE OUR GOLD AND SILVER GO.—The sales of silver in New York to the manufacturers of Silverware, including bars of refined and Mexican dollars, are said to aggregate $5,000,000 in silver and $10,000,000—that is to say, $5,000,000 in silver and $10,000,000 in gold—and this is exclusive of what is known as "rolled stock," or ribbons. The fact is asserted that there is more silver used for domestic purposes in the United States than in any other country in the world. This has been true only within the last few years. Thirteen years ago the sale of silver tea sets in this country was quite limited. Now, sets ranging in price from $100 to $800 are in constant demand, and a family that does not possess silver spoons or forks scarcely ventures to consider itself respectable. Almost every village in the country has one or more residents who make a pride of accumulating silver, and the example of such is contagious when circumstances will permit. It is a fact not generally known that before the war people in the Southern States bought more heavily of silver ware in proportion to their population than any other part of the country. Afterwards, much silver ware was sent to New York from that section to be melted, but now the Southern people are once more replenishing their stock.

Dispatches say that when the treaty of peace between France and Germany, negotiated at Frankfort, was read in the French Assembly, the "hardness of the terms occasioned much emotion." Yet had the French succeeded in getting into Germany and dictating a peace there, according to the original plan when the wanton and wicked attack on Germany was made, these same emotional gentlemen would have been able to see nothing wrong in exacting from that country still harder terms. They would now be singing pæans to the "glory" of the "grand nation."

The Democratic organ at Washington City—the Patriot,—which assumes to be the national mouthpiece of the party,—comes out vehemently against the proposed civil service reform. It warns all Democrats to beware of movements of this kind, asserts there is nothing in them and maintains that the system of competitive examinations in England, upon which the whole system of civil service is based, is a failure. Encouraging prospect for those Republican dreamers who have been proposing to side with the Democrats on this vague issue of civil service reform!

Classes in Elocution, Vocal Music and Calisthenics,

Meet as follows:

YOUNG MEN'S CLASS A—Mondays and Thursdays, from 6 to 9:30 P. M.
YOUNG MASTER'S CLASS A—Mondays and Thursdays, from 6 to 7 30 P. M.
LADIES' CLASS—Wednesdays at 4 15 P. M.; Saturdays at 11 A. M.
MISSES' CLASS—Tuesdays at 4 15; Saturdays at 1 30 P. M.
CHILDREN'S CLASS—(For little tots)—Tuesdays and Fridays at 3 P. M.

The Second Quarter of Lessons in Classes commences with the present week. It affords us great pleasure to acknowledge the substantial support of so large a number of patrons. We take pride in subjoining the following testimonial from one of the ablest educators in America, together with that of the entire corps of Normal Teachers with whom we had the great honor to labor.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, FIRST STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, Winona, April 18, 1871.

It affords me great pleasure to bear testimony to the high personal and professional qualities of Professor J. B McGibeny, who for two years presided with entire acceptance over the Department of Vocal and Physical Culture in this institution. To a thorough knowledge of the philosophy of Calisthenics and Vocal training possessed by but few, he superadds an enthusiastic devotion to his profession, and an industry surpassed by none. With an experience of more than a quarter of a century in the Normal Schools of this country, in whose courses of study Vocal Music has occupied a prominent position, I do not hesitate to say that I have never met with the peer of Professor McGibeny as an instructor in this department.

I commend him and his excellent wife, who also possesses rare powers as a teacher and musician, to the confidence of all who can appreciate the value of a true and rational mode of culture for the children and youth of our country. WM F. PHELPS, Principal

I heartily concur in the above
C. C. CURTISS, Dep't of Accounts.

The undersigned Teachers in the First State Normal School of Minnesota, also concur in the foregoing testimonial of Professor Phelps.

HISTORICAL CHART—A GREAT WORK.—Rev. S. C. Adams, of Salem, has nearly completed a skeleton chart of the world's history—a work involving not only great labor mechanically, but a long, patient and laborious study of history. Beginning at the creation of man, it shows by lines the periods of the first dwellers upon the earth, how their lives over-lapped one another, etc., down to the building of the Tower of Babel. Thence, the dispersion of men and the beginning and progress of nations—how they ran into and absorbed one another, or became extinct, together with their duration. There is far too much of it to be particularly described within reasonable newspaper limits. There is, running from one end to the other, a "line of time," marked off into centuries and tens of years; and all the other lines, in respect of exhibiting the duration of time, are drawn with respect to this central time line. The chart shows not only the time the nations existed, but the dates of historic discoveries and events—all in their appropriate centuries or subdivisions of time; and as the line of years cut all the others like of longitude on a map, it can be seen at a glance what nations or men were cotemporaneous. Thus the history of all peoples may be discussed by the teacher or lecturer using the chart for illustration, together or each may be treated of separately. Mr. Adams has so far finished the explanatory notes attached as to present a connected biblical history down to the birth of Christ. The notes to the Christian era are not yet completed. The chart shows, in colors along the line of time, the periods of each reign in the several centuries, and the names of the rulers. Mr. Adams constructed it primarily for the purpose of aiding him in illustrating historical lectures, and he has succeeded in producing a work which, if perfected, will prove to be of vast benefit to both teachers and students of history. It is capable of conveying to the mind a very clear idea of the history of nations at various periods, their doings, and their comparative durations of existence—and all this by a comparatively brief examination. It is "object teaching"—the favorite and the last method of instruction, of modern times. Mr. Adams displayed the chart in our office a day or two since, and briefly explained it, and stated what he intends still to do with it. When completed in all its details it will be such a work as, we believe, every college and high school should have and will want.

ARRIVAL OF THE WHISTLER.—The bark Whistler, J. C. Simpson, Master, arrived at this port from San Francisco, Saturday night. She brought a cargo of 1,500 tons part of it being a large lot of agricultural machinery. The following is a list of her consignees: Knapp, Burrell & Co 307 pkgs; E L & Co 31; H C & Co 118; E J Northrup & Co 370; J R Foster 516; J S 50; A Anthony 227; H W Corbett & Co 110; McCraken & Co 413; Smith & Davis 327; R in diamond [illegible] F & Co 396; C P S 88; Hurgren & Schindler [illegible] & Co —; Van Wegner 3; J Levy 57; A [illegible] 1; E P F 135; S N Arrigoni, Astoria 34; S J McCann 2; J K Gill, Salem, 5; C H [illegible] & Co 30; H C Stagels 1; H Weinhard 782 sks; Everding & Farrell 418; J C in diamond [illegible]; [illegible] & Lewis 274; E Martin 2; C L Parker, [illegible] 30; G L Hibbard & Co 175; A Gross 200; [illegible] Bros 30 tons pig iron; Frank Barker 3; [illegible] & Macleay 982; B F Smith 500; Millard & Van Schuyver 34; Hawley, Dodd & Co 46; M [illegible] 11; E N Cooke 7; Davenport & Wolford [illegible]; A W King, Salem, 1; J S H 5; W Young 5; [illegible] 367; W & L 14; R Chandle, Albany, 2; [illegible], Astoria, 55; W Jackson & Co 77; [illegible] diamond 100; E M in diamond 272; H S 1; [illegible] & Knox 3.

SAD CONSEQUENCES OF A FALL.—Saturday afternoon a son of the late Sherry Ross, a boy nine years old, while climbing a tree at the residence of his stepfather, Mr. Henness, about two [illegible] the city, fell from a height of ten or twelve feet, upon a sharp stub or stick, which [entered] the body in the region of the stomach [to a depth] of three or four inches, and stuck [fast. Sur]gical aid was obtained as quickly as [possible], and chloroform was administered so the stick could be pulled out without giving pain. The wound is a very ugly and perhaps a [fatal] one, but it is hoped the boy will recover. It is almost miraculous that the stick, entering the body to such a depth, did not produce death.

GRAND LODGE OF ODD FELLOWS.—The annual session of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows will begin in this city to-morrow. Past Grand Master Silas J. Day, of Jacksonville, arrived on Saturday. Messr. M. Marx and E. W. Wolfe, of Idaho, are expected to be here as representatives. The following named [gentlemen] are representatives from the Salem Lodges: Judge C. N. Terry, the Grand Secretary, F. G. Schwatka, J. J. Murphy, E. D. Towl, [illegible] Riddle, C. S. Woodworth, Joseph Baker, T. K. Wade, A. L. Stinson, L. S. Dyar and P. S. Knight. Judge Terry and P. S. Knight are already here. There are doubtless several others whose names we have not obtained.

EXPORTS TO CALIFORNIA.—The following is an abstract of the freight taken on Saturday by the steamer: 2,959 hf sks and 8,778 qr sks (3,684 sks) flour; 163 bxs eggs; 600 sks bran; 88 sks shorts; 10 cs hams; 16 cs bacon; 8 cs butter; 61 sks wheat; 17 bales woolen goods; 248 sks oats; 131 bbls and 790 cs salmon; 20 cs merchandise; 94 bdls hoops; 34 sks bones and 6 sks furs. Total 100 tons.

The propeller Constantine took a cargo also for San Francisco as follows: 2,247 sks wheat; 5,500 qr sks flour; 202 hides and skins; 191 bdls hoops; 50 sks beans; 150 bxs eggs; 20 bxs butter; 270 [illegible] bacon; 36 pkgs merchandise; 1,930 sks oats; 450 sks bran.

NEW RAILROAD SCHEDULE.—Regular daily trains are now running between Portland and Halsey, the latter point being ninety-seven miles from the depot at Holladay's addition. The schedule of arrivals and departures has been changed to suit this extension of distance. Passenger trains leave the depot at Clinton's Point at 7 o'clock A. M., arriving at Halsey at 2 P. M. The down passenger trains leave Halsey at half past 2 P. M., and arrive at Clinton's Point at 20 minutes past 8 P. M. The trains make close connection at Halsey with the Oregon and California stages.

ANOTHER SPELL OF WEATHER.—Yesterday was all sorts of a day—

For hot, cold, moist and dry, four champions fierce
Strive here for mastery, and to battle bring
Their embryon atoms.

That was the sort of broil, meteorologically speaking, which we had yesterday. But by the middle of the afternoon "moist" got the best of it, and held the mastery the balance of the day, [rain]ing, much to the disgust of that part of the human race who went out into the wilderness to see the "goose race" and the rope walking.

DEATH OF CAPT. LEMUEL LYON.—The death of this gentleman, late Consul at Kanagawa, Japan, was reported here Saturday. Captain Lyon had been transferred to Shanghai, whereupon he resigned and was on his way home. We have no particulars, but presume he died on the voyage to San Francisco. Capt. Lyon lived at the Dalles at the time of his appointment and has a daughter still residing there.

INDIANS REMOVED.—Mr. O. A. Brown was in the city and vicinity yesterday, gathering up the Indians belonging to the Siletz and Grand Ronde agencies. He caught fourteen, and thinks there are no more here belonging to those reservations. If people hereafter complain of the presence of Indians it may be understood that it is not the fault of the Agents at either Siletz or Grand Ronde.

HORSES STOLEN.—The Bulletin says: "We were informed yesterday that three horses had been stolen in Clackamas county, and we observed a poster from Eugene City at the police headquarters, offering a reward of $50 for the recovery of a horse stolen there recently and the apprehension of the thief."

RAILROAD SURVEY.—We are informed that Mr. Maxwell's surveying party is to be sent to make a survey and examination of the Snoqualmie Pass. Mr. Maxwell is now engaged in surveying a line for the Northern Pacific Railroad between East Portland and Vancouver.

SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.—The Sunday schools of Albany—teachers, pupils and friends—came down on the morning train of Saturday and returned in the afternoon. There were several hundred of them altogether, and they appeared to be enjoying a genuine gala day.

QUICK TRIP.—The John L. Stephens on her last trip down, reached San Francisco in sixty-three and a half hours from this port.

THE COURTS.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT—SAWYER, DEADY, J. J. SATURDAY, May 13, 1871.—John Bowman vs. Ben Holladay et al.; action to recover money; demurrer to complaint sustained, and plaintiff has leave to amend complaint within ten days on terms of $10. Gardner for plaintiff; Dolph for defendant.

AMUSEMENTS.

MR. COOK'S VOYAGE IN A TUB.—Capt. Cook made his long-talked-of voage in a tub, on Saturday. As per announcement, he sailed down the river from Ross' Island in his novel craft drawn by four geese, reaching the East Portland ferry landing a little after two o'clock. Several hundred spectators, standing upon the east bank of the river, witnessed the latter part of the voyage and the debarkation. The Portland wharves were also well lined with people, but not much could be seen from this side except by those who were fortunate enough to have glasses. Just as he landed a shower of rain came on which lasted the entire afternoon, thus spoiling the Park part of the programme. A hundred or more people went up to the Park and waited an hour or two to witness the rope-walking feat; but as the rain continued, this performance was postponed. Mr. Cook has been singularly unfortunate in this enterprise, yesterday being the third day announced for the show to come off, each time a rain storm prevailing and preventing the performance of the programme.

BASE BALL.—A match game of base ball was played on Saturday between the Athletic and the Live Oak clubs, of this city. At the close, the score stood, Athletics 38; Live Oaks 27 runs.

PASSENGERS FOR CALIFORNIA.—The N. P. T. Co.'s steamship Oriflamme sailed for San Francisco at 4 o'clock P. M. Saturday, taking the following named passengers: M L Savage, Bertha Savage, Laura Savage, F Baum and wife, W K Leveridge, A I Gross, Maj H M Robert, Miss E Slomondon, Mrs H Denney, Mrs G P Ihrie, C Eaton, Mrs Northrop, M S Rosenbaum, E Constable, W B Adam, George T Myers, Mrs George T Myers, J A Clifford, wife and two children, Miss Rash, Sol Goldsmith, Dr Cooper, F Burgfield, Rev W F West and wife, Mr Tuthill, Mr Waldo, C M Martin, Rev J N D Gage, John M Weder, John Roberts, L Provost, S G Baxter, W W Wilcox, T J Cottle, Harry Noyes, Dan Holton, S Guthrie and wife, C Holman, Lieut Sayers, Miss E York, Rev John Spencer and wife, J H Pote, John Jones, wife and child, H W Monastes, D Friedenrich, J C Van Rensselaer, Maj W H Bell, wife, two children and a servant, Mrs Gilbraith, Mrs A Rash, Mrs Failing, Wm T B Nicholson, wife and child, Mrs Lyle, P Richter, Jas Wilson, Mr Gill, J S Chandler, Miss N Cummings, A G O'Brien, John Brindle, G B Sally, J P Johnston, W, F & Co's messenger, and forty in the steerage.

The opposition steamer Constantine sailed at 5 o'clock P. M. The following is her passenger list: Mrs Dr Bill and son, Miss H Nathan, Rev D M Thorn and wife, Wm Wallace, E L Stephenson, Henry Lawrence, L Erickson, David Phillips, Mr J W Collins and wife, John Worthington, J T Boyden, Henry Smith, John Nugent, Miss J Johnson, Miss Cornelia Smart, John B Stephenson, John Douglass, W S Nelson, Andrew Bayer, A J Brown, John Shively, Miss Sarah Lee, Peter Campbell, Wm Graham, S W Hardy, and 45 others.

THE PACIFIC.—A dispatch was received at this city Saturday evening announcing the sailing of the steamer Pacific from Victoria for San Francisco. The injury she received in getting into the harbor at Victoria was repaired after a delay of several days.

FOR EASTERN OREGON.—The Mountaineer says says that considerable numbers of families from this valley have arrived at the Dalles, and have distributed themselves to Umatilla, Grant and other eastern counties of Oregon and Washington Territory.

DR. SAGE'S CATARRH REMEDY is no Patent Medicine humbug gotten up to dupe the ignorant and credulous, nor is it represented as being "composed of rare and precious substances, brought from the four corners of the earth, carried seven times across the Great Desert of Sahara on the backs of fourteen camels, and brought across the Atlantic ocean on two ships." It is a simple, mild, soothing, pleasant Remedy, a perfect specific for Chronic Nasal Catarrh, "cold in the head" and kindred diseases. The proprietor, R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., offers a reward of $500 for a case of Catarrh he cannot cure. For sale by most druggists everywhere. Sent by mail, postpaid, for sixty cents. Address the sole proprietor as above.

So Much of Life Behind Me Lies.

So much of life behind me lies,
My heart grows faint with sorrow,
That each to-day the swifter flies,
And sooner comes each morrow.

I marvel much that once I deemed
Time's azure wings were leaden;
And on life's boundless ether seemed
Youth's ecstacies to deaden.

While now my precious days glide on
Than all fleet symbols faster,
With fortune gay, scarce quicker gone
Than glooming with disaster.

It is not that my life has brought
Of its young dreams fruition;
Its warp, alas! is thick inwrought
With crossing of ambition.

Not that my days have all been good—
I mourn them few and fleeting:
Meager, I own, their gains that would
Be worth their poor repeating.

And this a double worth bestows
On hours as yet unsquandered;
Priceless to him the sunset grows,
Who the long day has wandered.

A wanderer and a loiterer I,
For whom life's shadows lengthen;
Above me shine the summits high,
Around me fetters strengthen.

I cannot reach the golden crests,
The while I strive receding;
My soul, impatient while it rests,
Weeps o'er each moment speeding.

So much to do, so far to climb,
So little learned at fifty!
Ah! youth is prodigal of time,
Age only makes us thrifty.

The silver gleams that in our locks
Are sunset's pale foreglances,
Teach us that deeds, not beating clocks,
Mark fitly Time's advances.

What's then to do, since time will run,
And graves end earth's ambitions?
The first, this only, is we'll done—
To live for heaven's fruitions.

Ku Klux.

[From the American Missionary.]

We do not often publish accounts of the outrages of these American Thugs. They are so harrowing to the feelings, the daily press so teems with them, and there seems so little hope of immediate relief, that we spare our readers.

But this narrative is so entirely reliable, the facts are so touching, the innocence of the victim is so complete, and the closing letter so calm, heroic and Christian, that we cannot withhold it. In the name of God and humanity is there no remedy for these murders? Of what avail was the war? Of what value was the peace that leaves the land to groan under such outrages?

THE MURDER BY KU KLUX OF W. C. LUKE.

About a year ago, W. C. Luke left his wife and children at their rural home in Canada, and bearing from his Methodist pastor a letter telling of his long service as Sunday-school superintendent, he appeared at the A. M. A.'s rooms in Cincinnati, asking for information in regard to a suitable field where he might establish a village school for the Freedmen, and make a home for his family.

It so happened that I met him at the A. M. A. rooms, and he decided at once to go to Talladega as clerk and carpenter, till the public schools of Alabama should open.

Not having expected to go so far, he would be short of means, and so sawed wood the remainder of the week, to pay his expenses over the Sabbath, till we should go to Talladega.

We soon found him a faithful and earnest man, doing with his might whatever his hands found to do.

He readily adjusted himself to our modes of prayer-meeting and Sabbath-school work, and became a working member of our church.

He had been in our family but a few months, when Captain Barney, Superintendent of the Selma, Rome and Dalton R. R. desired a man as clerk in his central office at Patona who should also be a sort of missionary among the Freedmen.

Here fifty miles north of Talladega, among the forests where extensive R. R. shops are [illegible], was an opportunity for opening a mission station without expense to the A. M. A. Luke must be spared.

Unlike Captain Barney (who was absent most of the time) several of the lower officials and agents sneered at, and opposed the "nigger teacher work."

Captain Barney ordered his warehouse to be opened for Sabbath-school, himself circulated notice of the school, and took part in it the Sabbath before Luke arrived. Frequently when he was gone, the key to the warehouse would be spirited away, unusual noises would come from the adjacent rooms during Sabbath school; the telegraph machine which Luke was ordered to use, would move about at night, so he could not find it for practice.

These and similar insults were offered, till we said to our brother, again and again, Why don't you report these things to Captain Barney?" He evidently was not afraid to do so, but preferred to suffer on, in hope that it would not long continue.

But these were not his only troubles; no "nigger teacher" had ever ventured so near Cross Plains, which was scarcely a mile from Patona.

Various threats were circulated till, finally, shots were fired just over his bed, after something had been thrown against his window, evidently to make him sit up in bed. But the lives of others only were endangered; as he happened to be absent that night.

Luke seemed not disheartened, but he delayed sending for his family.

Presently, some of the New York R. R. capitalists, spending the Sabbath in Patona, were so much pleased with his Sabbath-school that they decided to erect a school building at once.

Luke was to give his whole time to teaching, and looking after the building. Outlines of the proposed building were sent to an architect for plans and specifications.

All this intensified the feelings of "White Men's Government" people. A friend of Luke's getting off the train at Patona, could [illegible] of him. "No such man lives here," said one who had sat at table with him for months. But the colored men knew him, and where he could be found.

At last through a relative of the New York capitalists who accidentally came in possession of the facts, they, and the superintendent were apprised of Luke's treatment, and within a week certain services were no longer needed at Patona.

Matters now seemed prosperous till Sabbath afternoon, the 10th inst., when, at Cross Plains, a colored boy was abused, and kicked for not holding fast to a mule frightened at an approaching train.

Several colored persons, some of them from [illegible], resented the insult, and I think [illegible] shots were fired. Later in the evening several shots were fired either at the people returning from church or as a signal. No one was hurt, but a return fire was given which slightly wounded one colored man.

The next day Luke and a large number of colored people from Patona were arrested with or without form of law.

Luke seems to have been arrested on the ground of being the "nigger teacher" and hence the probable instigator of the assault.

On the contrary, however, on hearing of the treatment of the negro boy, he remarked that he wished "they had treated him ten times worse so he would learn to stay at home for Sabbath school."

At the preliminary trial all but four freedmen and Luke were released.

Near midnight from thirty to sixty disguised, armed men rode up to the house where the sheriff was keeping the five men, and after a plea or two from persons present, in behalf of the prisoners, they quietly said to the sheriff "hands off" and bound the five men.

After considerable pleading they permitted brother Luke to write to his wife and a little time to pray. (I will enclose a copy of his letter which was found sticking to a rail the next morning.

They then took them half a mile from the town, and hung them to three trees by the roadside.

Two apparently were taken down and shot, to provide ropes for the others.

At the coroner's inquest on Monday, all five were laid side by side with their hats turned over their faces and a rail pen put round them.

The friends of Luke with difficulty and danger succeeded in getting his body Tuesday morning and buried it in Talladega. The friends and relatives of the others dared not go near their bodies as they lay there alone under one of the trees on which they were hung.

They were buried by the town a day or two later.

Luke's funeral was attended by many leading citizens, white and black, of whom not a few felt that this was the deepest affliction of their lives.

H. E. B.

Copy of the letter written by W. C. Luke to his wife on the night of his death by hanging:

PATONA, July 11, 1870.

My Dear Wife,

I die to-night. It has been so determined by those who think I deserve it. God knows I feel myself innocent. I have only sought to educate the negro.

I little thought when leaving you so far away that we should then part forever.

God's will be done. He will be to you a better husband than I have been and a father to our six little ones.

There is in the company's hands about $200 of my money, also my trunk and clothes are here.

You can send for them or let Henry come for them as you think best.

God of mercy bless you and keep you, my dear, dear wife and children.

Your WILLIAM.

DIAMONDS FOR CUTTING AND DRILLING.—It is said that when diamonds are used in cutting hot glass in a glass factory one will last for only a single day. It gradually assumes a milky appearance and becomes worthless; but if the glass be cold the diamond will last for many months. Very small diamonds are used for cutting glass.

Diamonds which are used in the diamond drilling machines are about the sized of peas, presenting irregular, smooth surfaces, but more or less opaque and lacking in brilliancy, and having slight, smooth indentions.

It is said there is no perceptible wear to the diamonds, in the work of drilling, notwithstanding the hard and rough work it has to do. Their destruction is mainly by the act of "setting." They are set in the drill, into holes which have been previously drilled, in the ordinary manner. Each hole is made as near as possible to the size of the diamond it is to receive, and the stone is secured in its place by so battering the steel around it as to hold it tight. An unlucky blow, in this work, may greatly injure the stone by breaking off a fragment, or entirely destroy it by reducing it to small fragments.

When they are properly and carefully set they can be used until the steel in which they are imbedded has become so worn away by the attrition of the "chips" or "dust," from the rock, in the process of drilling, that the diamonds become loose or nearly so. If the setting is not watched with the greatest care, the diamond is liable to work out when the drill is in motion, in which case it is soon destroyed.

We have seen diamonds that were said to have been in almost constant use for months, on hard rock, which yet showed no perceptible wear. The small indentations so common in their surfaces had not even been ground out. A little diamond dust dropped into the drill hole, or the breaking and grinding up of a diamond from the drill while at work, would soon tell upon those that remained in their settings. The diamonds employed for this purpose generally cost from $8 to $12 each.—Pacific Rural Press.

A good joke is told of a little four-year-old fellow who, having disobeyed his father, was about to incur the penalty—a switching. The father deliberately prepared a rod, while his son stood a sad and silent spectator. As the parent approached to the unpleasant duty, the boy started at a brisk run toward a neighboring hill. The father pursued, and for a time the youngster increased the distance between them; but gradually his strength began to fail, and when he reached the hill and began to ascend he soon lost his vantage ground. Nearer and nearer the irate father approached, and just as the top of the hill was reached, and as he came within arm's length of the little fugitive, who was ready to fall from exhaustion, the boy quickly faced about; dropped upon the ground, and with an indescribable cast of countenance exclaimed: "Papa, that—makes a fellow—blow—don't it?" This "changing of the subject" was so extremely ludicrous that the father laughed heartily over the strategy which his hopeful son exhibited, and the rod was not used.

A learned German doctor mentions three instances among his relations and friends that show strikingly the unfailing love of reading among Germans. One officer in the landwehr before Paris, asked his wife to send him Kant's Kirtik of Pure Reason." The son of the Prussian minister of justice, when before Paris, wrote home for books, and his father sent him the "Institutes" of Justinian. A Heidelberg student, who was called away to serve as a private in the artillery, and was first before Metz, and then through the campaigns against the Loire army, suffered great hardships in the field; but the only complaint in his home letters was that he could get no books.

Hon. H. George Pendleton peremptorily declines to be a candidate for Governor of Ohio, and the choice of the Democracy is now narrowed down to George W. McCook—a selection which will be particularly disagreeable to Vallandigham. Honest old Ben Wade appears to be the favorite of the Republicans, and if nominated would be elected by many thousand majority.

So Much of Life Behind Me Lies

So much of life behind me lies
My heart grows faint with sorrow
That each to-day the swifter flies
And sooner comes each morrow

I marvel much that once I deemed
Time's azure wings were leaden
And ... life's boundless ether seemed
Youth's ecstacies to leaden

While now my precious days glide on
Than all fleet symbols faster
Will fortune pay scarce quicker gone
Than [illegible] coming with disaster

It is not that my life has brought
Of its young dreams fruition
Its warp alas is thick inwrought
With crossing of ambition

Not that my days have all been good—
I mourn them few and fleeting
Meager I own their gains that would
Be worth their poor repeating

And this a double worth bestows
On hours as yet unsquandered,
Priceless to him the sunset grows
Who the long day has wandered

A wanderer and a loiterer I
For whom life's shadows lengthen
Above me shine the summits high
Around me fetters strengthen

I cannot reach the golden crests,
The while I strive receding
My soul impatient while it rests
Weeps o'er each moment speeding

So much to do so far to climb
So little learned at fifty
Ah youth is prodigal of time,
Age only makes us thrifty

The silver gleams that in our locks
Are sunset's pale foreglances
Teach us that deeds not beating clocks,
Mark fitly Time's advances

What's then to do since time will run
And graves end earth's ambitions
The first this only is well done—
To live for heaven's fruitions

Ku Klux

[From the American Missionary]

We do not often publish accounts of the outrages of these American Thugs They are so harrowing to the feelings the daily press so teems with them and there seems so little hope of immediate relief that we spare our readers

But this narrative is so entirely reliable, the details are so touching, the innocence of the victim is so complete, and the closing letter so calm, heroic and Christian, that we cannot withhold it. In the name of God and humanity is there no remedy for these murders? Of what avail was the war? Of what value was the peace that leaves the land to groan under such outrages?

THE MURDER BY KU KLUX OF W C LUKE

About a year ago, W C Luke left his wife and children at their rural home in Canada, and bearing from his Methodist pastor a letter telling of his long service as Sunday-school superintendent, he appeared at the A M A's rooms in Cincinnati, asking for information in regard to a suitable field where he might establish a village school for the Freedmen and make a home for his family

It so happened that I met him at the A M A's rooms, and he decided at once to go to Talladega as clerk and carpenter, till the public schools of Alabama should open

Not having expected to go so far, he would be short of means, and so sawed wood the remainder of the week, to pay his expenses over the Sabbath, till we should go to Talladega

We soon found him a faithful and earnest brother, doing with his might whatever his hands found to do

He readily adjusted himself to our modes of prayer meeting and Sabbath school work, and became a working member of our church

He had been in our family but a few months when Captain Barney, Superintendent of the Selma, Rome and Dalton R R, [illegible] clerk in his central office at [illegible] should also be a sort of missionary [illegible] the Freedmen,

Here [illegible] north of Talladega, among the forests where extensive R R shops are [illegible] to appear was an opportunity for open[ing] [illegible] station without expense to the [illegible] Luke must be spared

[illegible] Captain Barney (who was absent most of the time) several of the lower officials and agents sneered at, and opposed the "nigger [illegible] clerk

Captain Barney ordered his warehouse to be opened for Sabbath school, himself circulated [illegible] for the school, and took part in it [illegible] before Luke arrived Frequently when [illegible] was gone, the key to the warerooms would be spirited away unusual noises would come from the adjacent rooms during Sabbath school, the telegraph machine which he was ordered to use, would move about at night so he could not find it for practice

These and similar insults were offered till [illegible] our brother, again and again, [illegible] you report these things to Captain Barney? He evidently was not afraid [illegible] but preferred to suffer on, in hope that it would not long continue

But these were not his only troubles, no "nigger teacher" had ever ventured so near Cross Plains, which was scarcely a mile from [illegible]

Various threats were circulated till, finally, shots were fired just over his bed, after some [illegible] had been thrown against his window, [illegible] to make him sit up in bed But [illegible] of others only were endangered as [he h]appened to be absent that night

Luke seemed not disheartened, but he [was] [illegible] for his family

[illegible] some of the New York R R [illegible] spending the Sabbath in Patona [were] so much pleased with his Sabbath school that they decided to erect a school building at [illegible]

[Luke] was to give his whole time to teaching [and] looking after the building Outlines [of t]he proposed building were sent to an [architect] for plans and specifications

[This] intensified the feelings of "White [man's] Government" people A friend of [illegible] getting off the train at Patona, could [illegible] of him "No such man lives [here]" said one who had sat at table with him [illegible] But the colored men knew him, and where he could be found

[It was] through a relative of the New York capitalists, who accidentally came in possession of the facts, they and the superintendent were apprised of Luke's treatment, and within a week certain services were no longer [requir]ed at Patona

Matters now seemed prosperous till Sabbath afternoon, the 10th inst, when, at Cross [Plains] a colored boy was abused, and kicked for [illegible] holding fast to a mule frightened at an approaching train

[Sever]al colored persons, some of them from [the t]rain, resented the insult and I think shots were fired Later in the evening [sever]al shots were fired either at the people returning from church or as a signal No one [was] hurt, but a return fire was given which [illegible] wounded one colored man

The next day Luke and a large number of colored people from Patona were arrested, with or without form of law

Luke seems to have been arrested on the ground of being the "nigger teacher" and hence the probable instigator of the assault

On the contrary, however on hearing of the treatment of the negro boy he remarked that he wished "they had treated him ten times worse so he would learn to stay at home for Sabbath school"

At the preliminary trial all but four freedmen and Luke were released

Near midnight from thirty to sixty disguised, armed men rode up to the house where the sheriff was keeping the five men and after a plea or two from persons present in behalf of the prisoners, they quietly said to the sheriff "hands off" and bound the five men.

After considerable pleading they permitted brother Luke to write to his wife and a little time to pray (I will enclose a copy of his letter which was found sticking to a rail the next morning

They then took them half a mile from the town, and hung them to three trees by the roadside

Two apparently were taken down and shot to provide ropes for the others

At the coroner's inquest on Monday all five were laid side by side with their hats turned over their faces and a rail pen put round them

The friends of Luke with difficulty and danger succeeded in getting his body Tuesday morning and buried it in Talladega The friends and relatives of the others dared not go near their bodies as they lay there alone under one of the trees on which they were hung

They were buried by the town a day or two later

Luke's funeral was attended by many leading citizens white and black of whom not a few felt that this was the deepest affliction of their lives H L B

Copy of the letter written by W C Luke to his wife on the night of his death by hanging

PATONA, July 11, 1870

My Dear Wife

I die to night It has been so determined by those who think I deserve it God knows I feel myself innocent, I have only sought to educate the negro

I little thought when leaving you so far away that we should then part forever

God's will be done He will be to you a better husband than I have been and a father to our six little ones

There is in the company's hands about $200 of my money, also my trunk and clothes are here

You can send for them or let Henry come for them as you think best

[Ma]y God of mercy bless you and keep you my dear, dear wife and children

DIAMONDS FOR CUTTING AND DRILLING —It is said that when diamonds are used in cutting hot glass in a glass factory one will last for only a single day It gradually assumes a milky appearance and becomes worthless but if the glass be cold the diamond will last for many months Very small diamonds are used for cutting glass

Diamonds which are used in the diamond drilling machines are about the size of peas presenting irregular, smooth surfaces but more or less opaque and lacking in brilliancy and having slight smooth indentations

It is said there is no perceptible wear to the diamonds in the work of drilling, notwithstanding the hard and rough work it has to do Their destruction is mainly by the act of setting They are set in the drill, into holes which have been previously drilled in the ordinary manner Each hole is made as near as possible to the size of the diamond it is to receive, and the stone is secured in its place by so battering the steel around it as to hold it tight An unlucky blow, in this work may greatly injure the stone by breaking off a fragment or entirely destroy it by reducing it to small fragments

When they are properly and carefully set they can be used until the steel in which they are imbedded has become so worn away by the attrition of the "chips" or "dust" from the rock, in the process of drilling that the diamonds become loose or nearly so If the setting is not watched with the greatest care, the diamond is liable to work out when the drill is in motion, in which case it is soon destroyed

We have seen diamonds that were said to have been in almost constant use for months, on hard rock which yet showed no perceptible wear The small indentations so common in their surfaces had not even been ground out A little diamond dust dropped into the drill hole, or the breaking and grinding up of a diamond from the drill while at work, would soon tell upon those that remained in their settings The diamonds employed for this purpose generally cost from $8 to $12 each —Pacific Rural Press

A good joke is told of a little four year-old fellow who having disobeyed his father, was about to incur the penalty—a switching The father deliberately prepared a rod, while his son stood a sad and silent spectator As the parent approached to the unpleasant duty, the boy started at a brisk run toward a neighboring hill The father pursued, and for a time the youngster increased the distance between them but gradually his strength began to fail, and when he reached the hill and began to ascend he soon lost his vantage ground. Nearer and nearer the irate father approached, and just as the top of the hill was reached, and as he came within arm's length of the little fugitive, who was ready to fall from exhaustion, the boy quickly faced about dropped upon the ground, and with an indescribable cast of countenance exclaimed "Papa, that—makes a fellow—blow—don't it?" This "changing of the subject" was so extremely ludicrous that the father laughed heartily over the strategy which his hopeful son exhibited, and the rod was not used

A learned German doctor mentions three instances among his relations and friends that show, strikingly the unfailing love of reading among Germans One officer in the landwehr before Paris, asked his wife to send him Kant's Kritik of Pure Reason The son of the Prussian minister of justice when before Paris, wrote home for books, and his father sent him the "Institutes" of Justinian A Heidelberg student, who was called away to serve as a private in the artillery, and was first before Metz, and then through the campaigns against the Loire armies suffered great hardships in the field, but the only complaint in his home letters was that he could get no books

Hon H George Pendleton peremptorily declines to be a candidate for Governor of Ohio and the choice of the Democracy is now narrowed down to George W McCook—a selection which will be particularly disagreeable to Vallandigham Honest old Ben Wade appears to be the favorite of the Republicans, and if nominated would be elected by many thousand majority
